GOVERNMENT DEBT.

Monthly Statement Issued from the Treasury Department.

REDUCTION DURING OCTOBER.

It Amounted to Over Three and a Half Million Dollars, Leaving the Total Debt Now at $812,283,310—Other Washington Dispatches.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—The treasury department monthly debt statement just issued shows a reduction in the debt during the past month of over three and a half millions to $812,283,310. The bonded indebtedness of the government to-day, exclusive of bonds issued to Pacific railroads, is $962,250,950, and of this amount $55,979,850 is four-and-a-half per cents and $578,263,850 is four per cent bonds. The treasury surplus to-day, including subsidiary coin and National bank redemption fund, aggregates $67,505,015, against $57,791,500 a month ago and $39,000,000 three months ago. The net decrease during the month of October was $3,000,000.

The treasury holdings of coin and bullion assets to-day aggregate $201,489,000, a decrease of $11,000,000 during the past month. Silver assets have decreased $4,500,000, and to-day amount to $347,867,815. National bank depositaries to-day held $23,857,087 of government funds, or about $50,000,000 less than Oct. 1.

Government receipts from all sources during October past aggregated $30,215,854, or nearly $2,000 more than in October, 1889.

Customs receipts alone during the past month aggregated $21,954,114, against $18,250,000 in October a year ago; while internal revenue receipts were $11,810,500, or about $1,250,000 more than in October, 1889.

Government expenditures during the past month were $18,000,004, or $5,000,000 more than in October, 1889.

Government revenue for the first four months of the current fiscal year amounts to $85,627,113, or $2,500,000 more than during July, August, September and October, 1889, and customs receipts alone for this period this year, aggregating $61,285,178.60, $4,250,000 more than in the corresponding months of the preceding fiscal year. On the other hand expenditures during the past four months aggregated $146,150,266, or about $21,000,000 more than in July, August, September and October, 1889.

The pension charge for the two periods in 1889 and 1890 was $70,192,032 and $118,307,302 respectively, or about $4,750,000 more during the four months of this year than for the same period last year.

Oklahoma People Need Assistance.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—In his annual report to the war department of the operation of the army in the department of the Missouri, Brig. Gen. Merritt states that on several occasions during the past year, troops have been called out to suppress threatened Indian outbreaks, but upon their appearance their services were not required; they were returned to their posts without going into action. The presence of troops at the polls in the Oklahoma elections was requested by the authorities, but their arrival seemed to have a quieting effect and the anticipated riot did not occur.

Gen. Merritt says that the cattlemen in the Cherokee strip show no disposition to violate the conditions governing their stay in that territory.

The condition of the people in Oklahoma is represented by Gen. Merritt as bad in the extreme. The severe drouth has rendered the corn crop a failure. Investigation has satisfied him that about one-third of the people are without food or money and will need assistance from outside the territory or starve. It will also, he says, be necessary to supply about half the farmers with grain for seeding purposes.

Gen. Merritt encloses the report of the medical director which says the sanitary condition of the department without exception is most excellent, and the general health of his command very good.

Epidemic of Cholera.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—Advices received by the marine hospital bureau from the United States consul at Valencia, Spain, report 101 cases and sixty-three deaths from cholera in that city, from the 4th to the 14th of October, and 172 cases and ninety-nine deaths in the province of Valencia during that period. The grand total of cases and deaths from cholera in the city and province since the outbreak of the epidemic is placed at 3,302 cases and 1,976 deaths. The United States consul at Hiogo, Japan, reports on Sept. 11 that Asiatic cholera was epidemic at Osaka, Japan. At Hiogo the disease had appeared but the number of cases had not exceeded 10 per week. Up to Sept. 11 at Osaka 538 cases and 481 deaths had been reported.

G. A. R. Council Called.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—Commander-in-chief Veazey has called a meeting of the executive committee of the National council of administration, G. A. R., at Detroit, on the 7th day of November. The next National encampment is to be held in that city, and this meeting of the executive board is called at that place for the purpose, among other things, of making preliminary preparations for the great reunion.

Wanted the President's Assistance.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—Annie Weslick, a harmless insane woman from St. Louis, called at the executive mansion Saturday to see President Harrison to have him stop her husband from selling their property. She will be sent to the asylum.

Boundary Line Dispute.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—The Venezuelan government has asked the mediation of the United States to settle the disputed boundary line between Venezuela and British Guiana.

THE OCEAN DISASTER.

Further Particulars of the Collision Off Barnegat Light.

TOMS RIVER, N. J., Nov. 3.—A visit to the spot where the ill-fated steamer Vizcaya and the schooner Francis Hargraves collided reveals the fact that nothing now remains above water except about one-half of the schooner's masts and the top-mast of the steamer. The wrecks lie in ten fathoms of water, ten miles due east of the life saving station No. 16, just north of Barnegat light. The wind is blowing strong from the west, and a heavy sea is running. Notwithstanding this the two vessels are moving but little. The steamer lies about 250 yards to the southward of the schooner, and but little of her masts is to be seen.

Several attempts have been made to reach the sunken vessels but only one has been successful. A wrecking steamer is lying about one mile off the beach, and two miles from the shore, awaiting favorable opportunities to do something. The wrecks are just outside the usual track of vessels but in a position dangerous to navigation. There are no lights to warn mariners. Nothing has washed ashore from the wrecks, owing to the stormy westerly wind. It is probable that there will be but little left of the vessels if the wind shifts to the eastward. The story of a negro boy having been washed ashore is doubtless unfounded. No such occurrence is known of by any one along the coast from Point Pleasant to Egg harbor.

Several of the crew of station No. 16 heard the whistle of the steamer just before she was struck, but gave it no particular notice. A fleet of small craft will visit the wrecks as soon as the sea goes down. Rumors of all sorts are flying about, but no actual information for them can be discovered. Oscar Bryntroy, a surfman of crew No. 16, noticed the two vessels early Friday morning. At that time portions of their hulls still remained above water, but they disappeared during the day. A close watch is being kept in the surf for bodies that may come ashore.

EXPRESS ROBBERIES.

Two Different Offices of the Wells-Fargo Company Entered by Burglars.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 3.—At a late hour Saturday night two men knocked at the door of the Wells Fargo express office, while the agent was counting his money and making up his report. He admitted them, and was at once seized, bound and gagged, and the men secured from the open safe money to the amount of from $5,000 to $15,000. They left him bound to the office floor, but after a time he succeeded in getting loose and giving the alarm, by which time he became so nervous that he could give little idea of the amount taken.

Another at the Same Time.

MEADVILLE, Pa., Nov. 3.—At a late hour Saturday night two men knocked at the door of the Wells Fargo express office, while the agent was counting his money and making up his report. He admitted them, and was at once seized, bound and gagged, and the men secured from the open safe money to the amount of from $6,000 to $15,000.

Mississippi's Constitution Complete.

JACKSON, Miss., Nov. 3.—The constitutional convention brought its labors to a close Saturday evening by adopting, with a few immaterial changes, the constitution and ordinances as printed. Only nine negative votes were cast. The printed constitution makes sixty-two pages and is said to be the longest of any in the United States except that of Texas. President Calhoun was presented with a handsome bronze clock by the convention and the usual complimentary resolutions were adopted.

Grand Jury System Denounced.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 3.—The state grand jury Saturday handed in a sweeping denunciation of the whole grand jury system and called for its abolition. The report declared the grand jury a superfluous adjunct to criminal jurisprudence, and asserted that in most cases it hinders and delays the administration of justice, while it affords the members who so inclined the opportunity to gratify malice or to blacken the reputation of reputable men.

Joe Coburn Dying.

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—The Sun says: Joe Coburn, the once famous champion pugilist, is dying of consumption, and his friends think that he has but a short time to live. Several sporting men of this city arranged to give him a benefit two weeks ago, but a hall could not be procured with the consent of the police. If another attempt to bring off a benefit proves unsuccessful, arrangements will be made to have it in Brooklyn or Jersey City.

Arresting Hundreds.

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—On warrants issued by United States Commissioner Shields and Lyman about 50 men were arrested for illegal registration. At one hundred of them were released on bail until morning, and the remainder 150 were locked up in the Federal building. No warrants were issued and all will be served under the direction of Chief Supervisor of Elections Davenport.

Feather-Weight Fight Arranged.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 3.—Articles of agreement for a five-ounce glove contest on Nov. 22, before the Audubon club in this city, have been signed by Tommy Warren, of California, and Tommy Miller, of Indiana, feather weights, at 118 pounds, give or take two pounds. The fight will be for a purse of $2,000, $500 to the winner and $1,500 to the loser.

Freight Trains Collide.

READING, Pa., Nov. 3.—Two freight trains on the Reading railroad came into collision at Royers Ford yesterday morning. James Doyle, a man, of Cressona, was killed. Seven cars were demolished and traffic was delayed several hours.

O'BRIEN AND DILLON.

The Irish Patriots Arrive in New York City.

AN ENTHUSIASTIC WELCOME.

In an Interview O'Brien Tells How He Left Ireland and Evaded the Officers Who Were Looking for Him.

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—Mr. William O'Brien, member of parliament, and his wife, Mr. John Dillon, member of parliament; T. D. Sullivan, member of parliament, and his wife and Timothy Harrington arrived here Sunday morning on the steamer La Champagne. A reception committee representing the United Irish societies of New York, accompanied by several hundred members of the National league and the various Irish societies met them at quarantine.

Upon the arrival of the steamer at her dock a reception was held on her deck, and at 11:00 the visitors were driven to the Hoffman house. The party had scarcely reached the hotel when Governor Hill called upon them. The governor warmly welcomed them to the city and state, expressed his hearty sympathy with the cause they represented and signed his name to the address of welcome that had been prepared by the Irish societies. Mayor Grant also called and expressed sentiments similar to those of the governor, and also appended his name to the address of welcome.

To the representatives of the press Mr O'Brien related the details of his escape from Ireland as follows: "We delayed our trip as long as there was any chance of our being able to visit America in the interval between the sentence and the appeal. We saw that the government was deliberately eating away that interval and as soon as that became evident we came away. The plan was simplicity itself. We went out of the front door of a conspicuous house in Dublin with out any disguise at all. We drove in a friend's carriage to Dalkey, supped at the house of Mr. Healy, and that night at midnight we rowed aboard the yacht St. Patrick, which set sail in a gale from Kingston at once.

"While we were being provisioned just before the start, the coast guard came alongside and questioned Capt. Murphy. Sheriff Clancy, of Dublin, was with us. We escaped detection and sailed for the Welsh coast, where we lay three days, hauling within pistol shot of the shore and in full view of the coast guards. Then we were becalmed three days more right in the course of English shipping in the channel, and if the scrutiny had been given to us that we exercised in searching outbound vessels we would have been detected sure. We reached the French coast on the evening of the seventh day, and went to Paris."

Mr. O'Brien then read a statement of the objects of the visit of himself and Mr. Dillon, which is made at the desire and upon the authority of Mr. Parnell, and predicted that a general election would occur in Great Britain in less than two years. After remaining here until after the election, the visitors will hold meetings in Philadelphia, Boston, Newark and New Jersey. They will then hold a series of meetings here and afterward divide into two or three parties and make a tour of the country.

PREMATURE EXPLOSION.

Two Men Horribly Mangled and Several Others Injured.

OMAHA, Nov. 3.—A special from Louisville, Neb., says: One of the most horrible accidents that has endangered human lives occurred at Dagherty and Behan's stone quarry, half a mile west of town Saturday at 2 o'clock. A body of seven men were at work tamping dynamite in a big stone, preparatory to a blast, when by accident a premature explosion occurred and did bodily injury to nearly all the workmen.

Henry Allison, a young man of family, was terribly mangled, but still lives. His face was torn, both eyes blown out, his forehead crushed open, his brain exposed, his left leg broken below the knee, his right arm broken and he received other injuries. He was blown about fifteen feet in the air.

Peter Schield was also fatally wounded about the head and breast.

The other workmen escaped with slight injuries so far as can be ascertained. The foreman was not at the quarry at the time of the explosion and the accident occurred by carelessness on the part of the tamper, as he should have poured sand on the dynamite to sink it to the bottom instead of tamping it.

Death of "The Modern Martyr."

WILLIMANTIC, Conn., Nov. 3.—Miss Lizzie O. Smith, widely known as "The Modern Martyr," died at her home in this city Monday morning. She was born at East Ford, Conn., Dec. 23, 1852, and was a relative of Gen. Keyes, of Pennsylvania army fame. She was unusually vigorous and active until she was 14 years of age when she was prostrated by a spinal trouble which developed a disease which resulted in her limbs making her a helpless invalid. She was confined to her bed for nearly fifty-five years.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 1.—Saturday's Examiner will contain a letter from Australia, Oregon, addressed to Frank P. [illegible] denying the disparaging [illegible] published reference [illegible] and other American [illegible] showing Slavin to a coward and a [illegible].

Bishop Kenrick to Be a Cardinal.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Nov. 3.—In an interview New Orleans Braly, of St. Louis, states that Archbishop Kenrick was soon to be elevated a cardinal.

AERIAL NAVIGATION.

An Invention Which a Chicago Company Has Organized to Develop.

CHICAGO, Nov. 1.—Fred N. Atwood, of this city, has invented an air ship with which he claims he will be able to travel at the rate of seventy miles an hour. A company with a capital of $100,000 has been organized to build and test it. The ship he has invented and the principles he has patented differ from all others yet invented. The ship itself resembles most of the others and it is cigar shaped and has a big car hung closely under it. Huge tanks are to contain hydrogen gas which is to be partially used in lifting the ship from the ground.

Three engines are to be inside the cabin, operating the seven big fan wheels. These wheels look like those on windmills in the country. Three of these wheels are propellers. One is hung under the bow and one under the stern, arranged so that they can turn any way like a rudder. Four huge wheels are to be used in elevating the ship. These are twelve feet in diameter and have sixteen blades each blade ten square feet in surface. The wheels revolve in huge cylinders that open out of the body of the ship. The idea is to run these wheels 1,000 revolutions a minute, and thus force a column of air out of the cylinders, creating a vacuum. The air rushing back toward the open cylinder will elevate the ship. Each wheel, the inventor estimates, has a lifting power of four tons.

The ship itself will weigh but 25,000 or 30,000 pounds, with four wheels, each having the power to lift four tons, and with the auxiliary assistance of hydrogen gas, Mr. Atwood thinks he can lift his ship. Once elevated it is an easy thing to propel it. All about the ship is a perfectly smooth plane, a deck having a surface of 10,000 square feet. This alone would scale the air in an oblique direction, up or down, like a kite. The ship will be built of aluminum, the lightest metal known. It will be 300 feet long, 50 feet high and 50 feet wide. The hydrogen gas will be manufactured on board the ship. Steam will be the motive power and gas the fuel. The engines are strong and light and specially constructed. The ship will cost about $30,000 and will be built immediately.

STARTLING CONFESSION.

A Prisoner Tells About Numerous Robberies Through the West.

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 3.—George Shinn, who with Charles Dorlay, alias Thorn, escaped from San Quinton prison three years ago and were captured in Chicago by detective J. B. Hume made a most startling confession. Ever since they escaped, detective Hume has believed they were in this state and were perpetrators of numerous stage robberies which have occurred since then, but he was not able to obtain any positive evidence. Friday night Shinn was transferred from San Quinton to Folsom by special arrangements made by Warden Aull and Detective Hume. Yesterday the warden and detective interviewed Shinn for over three hours.

He confessed that he and Thorn returned to California in 1884, and camped on the American river, about three miles from this city. This was the rendezvous to which they always returned after their raids. He admits that on the 31st of July, 1889, they stopped the stage from Milton to Sonora and robbed the passengers of $50, blew open the Wells Fargo treasure box with giant powder, but found it empty. On the 10th of September of the same year, they stopped the stage between Quincy and Oroville, and took a gold bar worth $500 from the Wells Fargo box. In April of this year, they held up the Forest Hill stage in Placer county, and robbed the passengers. Besides these robberies, Shinn confessed to numerous burglaries, garrotting and robberies committed by him and Thorn. They returned to Chicago May 30, this year, a few days between that time and the date of capture they committed something like twenty-five robberies in the state of Illinois.

A STRANGER'S STORY.

It Leads an Indiana Farmer to Commit an Act of Indiscretion.

MUNCIE, Ind., Nov. 2.—Friday a well-dressed gentleman, apparently 38 or 40 years old, with silver gray hair and mustache, appeared at the home of Aaron K. Leakey, a wealthy farmer living five miles south of this city, representing that he was a son of Leakey's uncle, and claimed that his father had died, leaving an immense estate, the administrator of which lived at Dayton, Ohio.

He told Mr. Leakey that he had not been neglected by his kind-hearted old uncle, and that his share of the estate would amount to $6,000. All he wanted was a written statement that he was Aaron Leakey and an order on the administrator for the above amount signed up, and he would get him the money. Greatly surprised, Mr. Leakey at once signed the papers, and the man left. He told his wife about the proceedings, and she told him at once he had been swindled.

He came to the city Saturday, and tried to talk to the probate judge at Dayton by telephone, asking him if there was such an estate to be settled up, as the stranger had represented. He could get no satisfaction, and went down out of the telephone exchange, shaking his head mournfully, and is now looking for the party to turn up in some of our banks in the form of a couple of fat notes.

Died in a Hog-pen during Vat.

DANSVILLE, N. Y., Nov. 3.—At West Sparta, Charles A. Thompson, a butcher, losing his hold on fell head long into a caldron of boiling water. When taken out he presented a fearful appearance, the flesh dropping from his body. He died after several hours of terrible agony. He was 35 years of age.

HORRIBLE MURDER AND SUICIDE

Tunis Amack, of Columbus, a Divorced Man, Shot and Instantly Killed Mrs. Elizabeth Anderson, a Woman He Had Become Enamored With—Other Buckeye Dispatches.

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 3.—A most horrible murder and suicide occurred at 115 East Rich street yesterday, Sunday. Tunis Amack, a divorced man, shot and instantly killed Mrs. Elizabeth Anderson, a woman who has separated from her husband and of whom Amack had become enamored. Amack is a divorced man with three children, the eldest being a boy 10 years of age.

Mrs. Anderson has also three children, one a son of 20. Amack has known Mrs. Anderson for some time and has been greatly smitten with her. She signified her intent to go back to her husband some days ago, and Amack threatened to kill her and himself too if this was done. Saturday morning Mrs. Anders got up in her night clothes to split some kindling with a hatchet, preparatory to cooking breakfast. Amack came to the rear door of the house and immediately the neighbors saw the two scuffling and then both disappeared into the house.

The landlord from whom Mrs. Anderson rents started to separate the combatants, but before he could reach the house three shots rang out and Amack dashed out of the side yard. He was asked what was the matter and replied "nothing in particular." The landlord then entered the house and found the body of the woman lying weltering in her blood, one shot having passed clear through her, ranging from the breastbone and coming out through the shoulder blades. Another went through her brain, while the third went wild. The right side of her head was smashed in, probably with the hatchet.

Two policemen pursued the murderer to his boarding house, but he was too fleet for them, and rushing up stairs he roused his son, told him what had been done and ordered him from the room, saying that he was going to kill himself. Soon afterward a shot was heard, and the officers bursting in the door found Amack lying on the bed dead with a bullet hole through his right side and a smoking 38-caliber revolver by his side. A young man sleeping in the room was not awakened by the shot, nor knew nothing of the affair until the arrival of the officers. Amack was employed by an investment house, while Mrs. Anderson owns a fine farm west of the city.

A Big Deal in Iron.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Nov. 3.—The leading iron manufacturing concerns in the Mahoning valley have been sold to an English syndicate. Some time ago an attempt was made to purchase but the deal fell through. A Philadelphia broker took the matter up and secured options on the Ohio iron and steel company, operations of the Warren rolling mill, Girard rolling mill, Youngstown rolling mill, Lowellville furnace, Young town Steel company, Andrews iron company and the Mahoning Valley Iron company. The amount involved is $1,000,000, and word has been received from the east that the English capitalists had accepted all propositions.

Sent Up to Two Years.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Nov. 3.—Ex-City Clerk John Kahle was sentenced to two years in the penitentiary Saturday afternoon. Before sentence was pronounced he made a pathetic plea for mercy which brought tears to the eyes of every one in the court room, including Mayor Stevenson and Judge Robinson. Kahle embezzled many thousand dollars from the city on account of drinks.

Strike Against a Reduction.

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 3.—Ninety men employed in the Otis iron and Steel company's Bessemer mill struck Saturday because of a 10 per cent. reduction in their wages. The Otis people say that the cut is necessary in order to avoid loss of money, and that unless they can secure men to do the work at the reduced wages they will allow the mill to be idle all winter.

Store and Postoffice Robbed.

NEW CONCORD, O., Nov. 3.—Burglars broke into the post office of R. A. Corning, at this village, robbed the safe of here some time after midnight Saturday night, and blew open the safe and took the contents, consisting of several gold watches and a large sum of money. Mr. Corning sleeps in the room and all the money belonging to it was taken.

Scourge of Diphtheria.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 3.—A special from Lima, O., says that the village of Mount Cory, this county, is afflicted with a scourge of diphtheria. Nine children died during the week, and fourteen new cases were reported. Fourteen families have been ordered quarantined, and inhabitants are leaving the town as rapidly as possible.

Child Fatally Mangled.

FOSTORIA, O., Nov. 3.—A 10-year-old lad named Lyman Goldy, while playing around the Ohio Central train, was run over under the wheels and was so mangled that he died in short time.

An Incendiary Fire.

WHEELING, W. Va., Nov. 3.—An incendiary fire yesterday evening destroyed the planing shed of the Collins & Co. lumber yards, one of the largest of town. The yards were the largest in this section, containing a large number of men. The loss is about $25,000.

FOREIGN NEWS.

Almost a Riot at a Murdered Woman's Funeral—Other Items.

LONDON, Nov. 3.—The funeral of Mrs. Hogg, whose mysterious murder has so excited the people of the London suburb Hampstead, took place Sunday, and, as was expected, the occasion was taken advantage of by the populace for a demonstration against the dead woman's husband, who is suspected of having, in collusion with his mistress, caused her death.

It was well that an extra force of police had been ordered on duty, for otherwise evidence would certainly have been done to Hogg. The carriage in which he rode was attacked by the angry mob, but the police charged upon the rioters and dispersed them. After this encounter the people contented themselves with loud threats and menacing gestures, and no further breach of the place occurred. Mr. Hogg seems determined not to be frightened away or influenced in his actions by the threats of his neighbors. He declares his innocence of any connection with his wife's death, and the authorities have not thus far been able to find any grounds upon which to arrest him.

Samoa's Chief Justice.

LONDON, Nov. 3.—The Swedish lawyer Cedercrantz, whose appointment as chief justice of Samoa, under the recent agreement between Germany, England and the United States has been ratified by the three nations, is now visiting the London legations en route for his new post of duty. He will call on President Harrison at Washington while on his way across the American continent to take the ship for Apia.

Only as It Should Be.

LONDON, Nov. 3.—Italian government newspapers are making unfavorable remarks about the interview of the pope and the Empress of Austria, the imperial lady having been received with marked favor by the pontiff, who also extended to her his blessing.

India's Marriage Law.

LONDON, Nov. 3.—It is stated that the legislative council of India is considering the repeal of the law giving a husband the right to claim his betrothed wife after she is 10 years of age, the intention being to increase the limit to 12.

POLITICS AND POLICE.

A Serious Riot in Which a Number of People Are Injured.

PITTSBURG, Nov. 3.—In a riot at Jeanette Saturday night Police Officer Pitts was struck on the head and probably fatally injured. Officer Clinger was also injured but not seriously. The riot started in a drunken brawl. In the melee several shots were exchanged between the police and rioters and more than a dozen persons were more or less hurt. Two hundred persons were engaged in the conflict and the Jeannette physicians are attending thirteen of those injured. Several of the rioters are in the Greensburg jail.

Two political meetings were held at Jeanette Saturday night. After the meetings adjourned the streets were crowded with enthusiastic partisans. A crowd of them collected and were discussing politics when the police ordered them to disperse. Officer Pitts is unpopular, and is charged with being a non-union carpenter. The crowd refused to obey his order, and a general fight followed. Pitts and the few friends he had drew their revolvers and fired into the crowd. The crowd returned the fire, and for a few minutes the wildest excitement prevailed, and when the trouble was quelled Pitts and two others had to be carried to their homes. None of the shots took effect. Besides those arrested warrants have been issued for the arrest of forty others, charged with rioting and assault with intent to kill.

BLOODY TRAGEDY.

A Double Murder Followed by a Suicide.

SOUTH ST. PAUL, Minn., Nov. 3.—A bloody tragedy occurred here yesterday evening, including a double murder followed by the suicide of the murderer. Benjamin F. Rogers and William E. Rogers, Jr., are brothers, engaged in the commission business and stock raising. Saturday night some of their cattle strayed into adjoining meadows belonging to a farmer named George Roberdge. Yesterday evening the Rogers brothers went after their cattle and a dispute arose between them and Roberdge over the ownership of several animals.

The quarrel grew warm and Roberdge went to his home and returned with a double barrelled shotgun loaded with buckshot. Before the brothers could retreat he fired at Benjamin L., literally blowing off his head. The second barrel was discharged at William, fatally wounding him in the neck and breast. Roberdge reloaded the gun, and racing to his barn, divested himself of coat, hat and shoes. Placing the muzzle of the gun beneath his chin he pulled the trigger with his toe and blew off the top of his head.

Heard From in Canada.

WHEELING, W. Va., Nov. 3.—Definite information was received at St. Clairsville yesterday evening that ex-Probate Judge Thomas D. Sharon, who was recently arrested in Wheeling for stealing horses, was in Canada. Sharon disappeared last April mysteriously and escaped two weeks after his arrest. It was that Colonel Morgan had some papers before leaving which created a sensation.

An Old Church Destroyed by Fire.

HOBOKEN, N. J., Nov. 3.—The Dutch Reformed church on Hudson street, between Fourth and Sixth streets, in this city, was burned to the ground yesterday afternoon. It was one of the oldest churches in the state. Loss about $50,000.

PETERSBURG BATTLEFIELDS

Will Be Preserved by a Company Organized for That Purpose.

PETERSBURG, Va., Nov. 3.—The Petersburg Battlefield and Land Improvement company is the name of a joint stock company to be organized here, with a capital of not less than $100,000. The objects of the company are the preservation of the battlefields near Petersburg, and laying off of building lots for suburban residences.

At the "Crater" it is proposed to establish a home for maimed and disabled Federal and Confederate soldiers. The company has options on 2,800 acres of land in Prince George county, on which are a number of Federal and Confederate forts which are still in good preservation.

German Painter Suicides.

PITTSBURG, Nov. 3.—Charles Fischer, a German painter, employed on The Freiheits Freund, committed suicide in his home, No. [illegible] Smithfield streets, at 5 o'clock yesterday evening by hanging himself to a bedpost. The suicide was not only a peculiar one, but a most determined one. Fischer hanged himself to the bedpost of an old-fashioned bedstead by tying a yellow silk necktie around his neck, and then with his knees touching the floor, died an agonizing death by slowly strangling himself. The only cause assigned for the suicide is that Fischer has been drinking heavily of late.

A Crank in Church.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 3.—Yesterday a stranger appeared in the Church of the Sacred Heart in Pawtucket, where services were being held, and threatened to kill Father Fitzgerald, saying: "No one can pull a revolver on me." He was seized and taken to the station. He gives his name as James Cellihar and says he lives at Central Falls. In his pockets were found two rocks of very large size. It is believed that he is a religious crank.

Telegraphers Leave the Brotherhood.

CHICAGO, Nov. 3.—The local members of the Brotherhood of Telegraphers at a meeting yesterday afternoon decided by an almost unanimous vote to resign their charter in the young organization. This resolution of the brotherhood will be made known to the Western Union Telegraph company and there is every likelihood that the dismissed operators will be received back into its employ.

MONDAY, - - NOVEMBER 5

An inquiry after the board of trade elicited the information that it would be heard from after election. Well, something cheerful in that. The waiting gratifying.

The noise of the campaign is over but, bless you, it is but four weeks until Congress convenes, and it is only two months until the legislature assembles. In the meantime we are to have Thanksgiving. One has to be thankful sometimes for very small favors.

Here is a bit of oil on the perturbed waters of our free trade friends. The Fremont News observes that paint has gone up under the new tariff law. Whisky, however, is quoted at the old prices, and there will probably be no interruption to the usual custom of painting towns a beautiful carmine hue.

If the stories of the unloading of boodle in the Sixteenth district are true, there ought to be an unexampled period of prosperity for a short time. And the stories of soap that has been scattered in this district, if they were true, would be assurance of plenty of cash in this section. When it comes to chasing down a real case of liberal boodle distributor it is a good deal like the old milk sickness—always over in the next county.

During last week there was a pretty liberal distribution of Lima Republicans among Marionites. The chief feature of the distributed papers was our retraction in the Wallace-Lamson-Davies case, with some comments added thereto. This is an indication that our retraction has pleased the Lima folks who were sensitive about what we said. We are glad of it. A retraction that will suit the complainants and the newspaper is quite an achievement, and we are pleased to have accomplished it.

There are plenty of good reliable republicans in Marion who, if they seriously believed the Mirror fake, would not vote for Foster at all. They say this openly, and say further that they would oppose him because a man that would bid $200 for such a deal hasn't the sense to go to Congress. The Mirror's concession of defeat wouldn't be worth $10, nor would that of any other paper in the district. Mr. Foster is a clever politician and spends considerable lucre but he is wiser than the virtuous editors would make believe.

The Mirror in its sensational extra edition, which is but a bid for notoriety, says of Foster:

He had at his command the columns of the Marion Star, the daily republican paper of this city—that like the dogs of Lazarus is ever ready to lick the sores on the festering carcass of the grand old party.

This is fun—humor that is out of sight. A democratic organ talking about the Star being like the dogs of Lazarus, after the same organ so independently slashed Hare after his nomination, for his dishonest methods and unscrupulous trickery, and then set to work to eat its own crow and land him to the skies amid the din of campaign misrepresentation. The Daily Star is not an organ but an independent paper and it licks no sores of any kind, political or otherwise. It is not only not like the dogs of Lazarus and the political curs of the city of Bronson it is unlike the lick-spittles of municipal affairs that are known to exist to-day.

On the alleged attempted purchase by Foster the Star had an interview with the Ex-Governor. As a bit of news we thought to investigate. Mr. Foster laughed and said the take was so ridiculous that he didn't care to notice it. None disputes the Mirror was approached with such an offer, but the opinion is quite general that it was a straw man set up for the apparent purpose of knocking it down. The editors may have erected the dummy themselves. We shall not be so lacking in courtesy as to say that, but it was done in a very party job, possibly conceived by the brilliant Doc Norton, of Seneca, was so generously ousted in May after the Carey convention.

The effects of the extra edition sensation are not notable. There will be the same closeness in the Hare-Foster contest that was [illegible] it will have but two days [illegible] The result is not effected [illegible] Mirror has managed [illegible] tention outside the county [illegible] was quite an achievement.

CHRIST WALKED [illegible]

SOLOMON [illegible]

Dr. Talmage Gives an Interesting Description of Ancient Jerusalem and Its Famous Work of Solomon.

Brooklyn, Nov. 2. Dr. Talmage preached this morning in the Academy of Music, [illegible] Sunday morning to listen to his discourse. No [illegible] and it was announced that Mr. [illegible] at The Christian Herald every Sunday night. The sermon was on the gardens and parks and works of Israel's magnificent king, and is the first [illegible] it. I do not make my [illegible] I builded me houses. I planted me vineyards, I made me gardens and orchards and planted trees in them of all kinds of fruits. I made me pools of water to water therewith the wood that bringeth forth trees." Dr. Talmage said:

A spring in spring and before breakfast at Jerusalem. A king with robes snowy white in chariot dressed with gold, drawn by eight [illegible] and horsemen are [illegible] out of that very [illegible] Like the whirr for speed, followed by a regiment of soldiers on foot clad with hand on gilded bow, and [illegible] with steel points flashing in the [illegible] clad from head to foot in Tyrian purple, and black hair sprinkled with gold dust, all dashing down the road, the horses at full run, the reins loose on their necks and the crack of whips, and the hallos of the reckless cavalcade putting the miles at distance. Who is it, and what is it? King Solomon taking an outing before breakfast from Jerusalem to his gardens and parks and orchards and reservoirs, six miles down the road toward Hebron.

What a contrast between that and myself on that very road one morning last December, going about, for our plain vehicle turned back for photographic apparatus forgotten, we on the way to find what is called Solomon's pools, the ancient water works of Jerusalem, and the pleasure [illegible] of a king nearly three thousand years ago! We cross the aqueduct again and again, and here we are at the three great reservoirs—not ruins of reservoirs, but the reservoirs themselves that Solomon built three millenniums ago for the purpose of catching the mountain streams and passing them to Jerusalem to slake the thirst of the city, and also to irrigate the most glorious range of gardens that ever bloomed with all colors or breathed with all redolence, for Solomon was the greatest horticulturist, the greatest botanist, the greatest ornithologist, the greatest capitalist and the greatest scientist of his century.

"THE HALF WAS NOT TOLD ME."

Come over the piles of gray rock and here we are at the first of the three reservoirs, which are on three great levels, the base of the top reservoir higher than the top of the second, the base of the second reservoir higher than the top of the third, so arranged that the waters gathered from several sources above shall descend from basin to basin, the sediment of the water deposited in each of the three, so that by the time it gets down to the aqueduct which is to take it to Jerusalem it has had three filterings, and is as pure as when the clouds rained it. Wonderful specimens of masonry are these three reservoirs. The white cement fastening the blocks of stone together is now just as when the trowels slave thousand years ago smoothed the layers. The highest reservoir is 380 feet by 229; the second, 424 feet by 160, and the lowest reservoir, 560 feet by 160 and deep enough and wide enough and mighty enough to float an ocean steamer.

On that December morning we saw the water rushing down from reservoir to reservoir, and I can well understand how in the time of Solomon the imperial gardens were a great blessing, and the orchards, and the [illegible] fruit, and that Solomon's palaces, writing the songs of [illegible] may have been inspired sometimes from what he had seen of scenery in nature in the royal gardens where he strolled in melons and pomegranates and apricots and grapes and pomegranates and figs and spikenard and camphire and myrrh and aloes, with all the chief spices, among the trees of the woods" and the cultured trees of fruit-bearing and [illegible] and frankincense and [illegible] Christ's vineyard, and he [illegible] and he [illegible] "There [illegible] She gave it up.

But all this [illegible] Solomon began [illegible] the dark [illegible] and [illegible] off and rolled away by the [illegible] spheres. Solomon was the man to be [illegible] by God. [illegible] Solomon [illegible] and [illegible] and [illegible] and

FORTUNATE ESCAPE

Mrs. Jesse Haines Saved from a Horrible Death by Timely Assistance.

Mrs. Jesse Haines, a lady aged sixty years, residing with her husband on north Ballentine avenue, was saved a horrible death by burning by the fortunate assistance of a young man who happened to be at the house.

Mrs. Haines was preparing dinner at noon today, and in lifting a kettle from the stove her apron became ignited. The flames spread rapidly and soon she was entirely ablaze. It so happened that a young peddler was to take dinner with Mrs. Haines, and but for his presence the lady would likely have burned up. By the liberal use of water the blaze was extinguished and danger averted, but not until the woman was considerably burned about the arms, shoulders and neck, and her hair was scorched.

Mr. Haines was away from home at the time of the accident, he being employed at Blake's garden. Dr. A. B. McMurray was called and dressed the lady's injuries and gave it as his opinion that the accident would not result fatally. Mrs. Haines is quite a feeble lady, but she was able to sit up this afternoon, notwithstanding her serious experience.

Murder for Money.

JOLIET, Ill., Nov. 3. Charles Newman, a German workingman, was found yesterday afternoon in his room with a bullet hole in his breast and a piece of lead cord tied about his neck and fastened to a nail over the door, at the foot of which he had laid. The rope was soaked in kerosene and it is supposed had been set on fire and was smothered.

An Old Time Senator.

He comes down the street looking like an antique painted on ivory which has stepped out of the frame. His features are delicate and aquiline, with jet black eyes, which have looked the world in the face for eighty-seven years. Upon a head of wavy curls, spotlessly white, sits an antique silk hat, polished till it shines anew. The Van Dyke beard is white and curly and the snowy mustachios are artistically waxed. Around the shoulders hangs a military cape of the pattern of 1840. Under the cape is a long, black Prince Albert coat and a waistcoat of fancy stuff. His boots are small and exquisitely polished. From his watch pocket a curiously carved golden charm hangs on a black silk fob. He carries a slender gold headed cane.

His figure is light, sinewy, graceful, almost jaunty in its bearing. He stops now and then and looks around him with the wondering air of a man who is in a new and strange country. An electric street car flashes by him, and he watches it out of sight with an almost startled look in his eyes. He has a courtly salute for every lady and a smile for the bright eyed girls who bid him good day as they pass. The writer saw him at the opera the other night, carrying his ninety years as though they were but thirty. He enjoyed the music heartily, and between the acts visited the various boxes to chat with the occupants. This is Gen. George W. Jones.—Dubuque Cor. Chicago Times.

England's Torpedo Repair Shop.

The Vulcan, new torpedo depot ship, was laid down at Portsmouth in June, 1888, and was intended to be completed some time next year. She is of 6,620 tons, 12,000 horse power, and designed for a maximum speed of twenty knots. Her armament is to consist of eight 4.7-inch and twelve three-pounder quick firing guns. She is also a floating factory for the repair of torpedoes, torpedo boats and their engines. It is impossible to exaggerate her usefulness to a squadron, and it was of extreme importance that she should be got out of hand with the least possible delay.

Now I am informed that the mountings and supports of her 4.7-inch guns are considered insufficient, that they are being strengthened, and that this involves the pulling up of decks and the pulling down of cabins at the cost of much time and money. Is it Mr. White and the constructors, or Elswick and the gunners, who are to blame for this latest bit of mismanagement?—London World.

A New Dish.

The best autumnal breakfast dish that has come to the cognizance of people who know what's what is described as a compound of hashed chicken, tender green peppers and small clams. The first impression on the senses is made by a savory, stimulating perfume, which is said to be calculated to convince the most jaded reveler that he was mistaken in the miserable supposition that he "couldn't eat anything." The second assault on his appetite is made through the eye, which gradually discerns that it isn't simply a chicken hash which invites, but a glorified medley of clams, peppers and hashed chicken. The third result of contact with this new plat is effected through the sense of touch, and taste alone does it justice. Its creator is George Boldt, who, in anticipation of taking charge of the new Astor house, has recently dispatched one of his young men all through Europe to gather ideas.—New York Letter.

A Trackless Street Car.

An exhibition run of the "carette," a diminutive street car without a track, which has been in use in Chicago for several weeks, was given the other afternoon. The "carette" is light and easy in motion, and no jolting or discomfort was felt in riding in it along the part cobblestone paving of Chestnut street. It cannot run on the ordinary street car track, the distance between the wheels being greater than the car track width. It avoids delays or blockades, and stops at the curb to receive or discharge passengers. It seats twenty persons, is drawn by two horses and has a conductor and a driver. It is said to be very popular in Chicago among ladies and children.—Philadelphia Times.

An Unfinished Story.

If one Springfield baby didn't have the colic one night recently, it is because grapes agree with some infants. One of the many baby carriages that line the sidewalk while mothers are shopping was pushed against a fruit stand the other afternoon. By leaning over its occupant could just reach the purple clusters in a basket. And then one by one the grapes went down baby's throat, and just as the little one reached for another cluster mamma appeared.—Springfield Republican.

A Steam Heated Wharf.

An innovation in the method of handling green fruit at the port of New York is about to be put into practice.

The new arrangement consists of a steam heated wharf. In the past fruit has been landed on the wharf without regard to the weather, and when the temperature ranged below the freezing point great damage resulted. The heated wharf will be 56 by 181 feet in dimensions.—Philadelphia Ledger.

In the Near Future.

The time is fast approaching when the visitor to the sanctum will step in, smiling and confident, and just as he is about to say:

"Here is a little thing I have just dashed off," he will be paralyzed by a voice resembling in tones of thunder:

"Go back and shut the door!"—Boston Courier.

Mr. Hodgkins' Perpendicular Chicken.

Mr. Elson Hodgkins has a curiosity at his store on second street in the shape of a deformed chicken. The chicken walks perfectly erect, the head being perpendicular with the end of the back. The tail curls under the body. Today this chicken was seen to catch a live rat and eat it.—Cor. Atlanta Constitution.

France and Italy's Good Fortune.

Congress has done a very creditable act in authorizing the president to appoint Richard H. Jackson, of Alabama, an ensign in the navy. Young Jackson, having finished his studies in the naval school, was sent on a two years' cruise, at the end of which a part of the class, under the law, was retired and the others made ensigns. Jackson fell among those retired. But when he was on his cruise he distinguished himself so greatly that this special law has been passed to retain him in the navy.

It was at the great storm at Apia, Samoa. At a critical moment, when the Trenton was about to drift on a reef, he led the men aloft, where their bodies had the effect of a sail, and this saved the ship. Admiral Kimberly highly complimented Mr. Jackson on his bravery in time of such peril, and in a report to Secretary Tracy says that he not only saved the Trenton's crew, but also that of the Vandalia, who would all have been lost had not the Trenton drifted alongside and rescued her men.

Mr. Jackson is only 23 years old, and was appointed to the Naval academy by Gen. Wheeler, of Alabama, graduating in 1887.—Raleigh News and Observer.

Contesting a Live Man's Will.

In the probate court at Cincinnati the case of Mrs. Josephine Fee against J. J. Hopple was heard by Judge Goebel. It is a case in which the daughter sues her father to prevent the carrying out of his will, instead of waiting until after his death to contest it, on the ground that he has, by undue influence, disinherited her not only, but been led to aver that she was not his daughter, by reason of some alleged flaw in his marriage to her mother, his first wife.

That good woman died years ago, and it is about twenty years since Mr. Hopple married a Miss Boone, who had been his nurse through an illness. Mrs. Boone-Hopple did not like her stepdaughter Josephine, and it is alleged that she induced Hopple to destroy a will in which he had provided for Josephine as his "beloved daughter," and to make the new will, leaving the latter practically without share in his $50,000 estate. It is a case interesting and unique.—Cor. Philadelphia Record.

Hearst's Rich Gold Mine.

"The Homestake mine, in the Black Hills, of which Senator Hearst is a principal owner, is the richest gold mine in the world," said H. C. Rorapaugh, of Deadwood, S. D., at the Metropolitan. "It is the biggest in a group of mines in the immediate vicinity of Deadwood. The company has 3,000 men at work in the mines, mills and woods. For fourteen years they have never missed a dividend, and every month take out from $150,000 to $200,000 in gold. There are 1,200 stamps in operation. The vein of the Homestake is 360 feet wide by about two miles in length, and there is ore enough in sight to run all the mills for the next twenty years."—Washington Post.

Hard to Swallow.

A death from a remarkable cause is reported from Coosa county, Ala. Thomas Waits, a young man of 22, living about seven miles from Verbena, contracted in his youth the habit of eating dirt and red gravel rock. As he grew to manhood the abnormal appetite grew upon him. For some months previous to his death he worked on a gravel train on the South and North railroad. He could not procure such rocks as he had been in the habit of eating, and finally would eat hard flint gravel or any other kind convenient. As he could not masticate his strange food he eventually took sick and returned home to die.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Red Cotton.

For two years or more considerable publicity has been given to and no little interest excited by the discovery of red cotton and the efforts to perpetuate its growth. According to the latest report the several attempts have been successful in the main. A planter in Alpharetta, Ga., has an acre of cotton, every stalk of which is said to be of a deep red color, leaf, ball and bloom. This novel crop is the product of seed derived three years ago from two stalks of red cotton found in a cotton field. If this variety can be perpetuated it will likely be an a fortune to the successful planter.—Baltimore Manufacturers' Record.

Near Gladstone, Mich., a few nights ago, a locomotive on the Soo line killed three deer. The engine was running thirty-five miles an hour, when a buck and two does stood in the center of the track "fascinated by the flash of the headlight." The engineer could not stop his train in time to avoid the collision, which resulted in injury only to "the poor dappled fools."

A jury at Syracuse, N. Y., a few days ago found a verdict for the defendant, but the foreman blunderingly announced a verdict for the plaintiff, and the court recorded the same and gave judgment accordingly. When the mistake was discovered after the jury's discharge the judge said he could not change the record. The case furnishes a riddle for the lawyers.

While swimming in the Marine dock, St. Louis, a few days ago Richard Jackson felt a sharp, stinging pain in the leg, and thought he was bitten by a snake. Dressing himself he was on his way home when he fell screaming in agony. Investigation disclosed that the "snake bite" was a two inch sliver of wood.

Herman Zietung, now in London, expresses a desire to be nailed up in a box and shipped to New York. He has traveled considerably in that way and likes it. He once made the journey between Vienna and Paris in a trunk, and has just completed the trip between Berlin and London, also in a trunk.

Street Commissioner Wolverton, of Adrian, Mich., had a calf which had the habit of sticking its head out of the barn door. Recently a bolt of lightning killed it. The queer part of the case is that the barn entirely escaped.

Points of the Question by Cable.

An incident of an interesting and somewhat romantic nature has arisen out of the visit of the British farmer delegates to Canada. Mr. H. Simmons, of Wokingham, England, found at Moosomin, N. W. T., a bachelor friend of his who has been settled in the territories for some years and has done well. Mr. Simmons was so delighted with the surroundings of Moosomin that he purchased the section adjoining his friend's farm.

A daughter of Mr. Simmons is engaged to be married to a young Surrey farmer, the happy event being fixed to take place immediately upon Mr. Simmons' return to England. It was the intention of the young couple to proceed to Australia to settle, but Mr. Simmons cabled them of his land purchase, and intimated that he desired his son-in-law and daughter to locate upon the property at Moosomin. The reply was promptly flashed back that they would do so.

It appears, however, that Mr. Simmons has another unmarried daughter, and the Moosomin man suggested that, to make the little family arrangement complete, this lady should become his wife and the two families would be living side by side. Mr. Simmons confessed that the arrangement would suit him, but he could not speak for the young lady. However, he was urged to send a second message over the cable conveying the offer of marriage, and a prompt "Yes" came back.—Cor. Toronto Empire.

How to Get Rid of Icebergs.

One of the greatest dangers to Atlantic navigation, and therefore of great practical interest to seamen, passengers and owners of ships, is the possibility of collisions with icebergs. This year these huge products of Artic winters have been unusually common, and it is stated that more than twenty have been sighted in the course of twenty-four hours in the track of steamers plying from New York to Liverpool or the Clyde.

A correspondent in The London Times makes a suggestion that these icebergs might be used as targets by cruisers, and thus broken up and dispersed. The suggestion is well received in England, and it is urged that the British meteorological department follow the example of that of the United States, and mark on charts the area within which icebergs are to be expected. The captain of a cruiser setting out with such charts in his possession would have a comparatively easy task in finding where the target floated at which he was to fire.

An English Duke.

William John Arthur Charles James Cavendish-Bentinck, sixth duke of Portland, who with his wife is about to visit America, is described as an extremely democratic and level headed young man of 32. His simplicity and bonhomie are attributed to the fact that he was born a commoner, and until he was 22 years of age remained the inconspicuous Lieut. Cavendish-Bentinck, succeeding to the title on the death of his cousin, the fifth duke. Only two other English dukes were not born to the strawberry leaves—the duke of Bedford, who was plain Mr. Russell, and the duke of Devonshire, who was Mr. Cavendish. The beautiful duchess of Portland was Miss Winifred Dallas-Yorke, only daughter of Mr. Thomas Yorke Dallas-Yorke, of Walmsgate, Lincolnshire, who is said to trace his pedigree in an unbroken descent from Adam, and to look down on the whole British peerage as parvenu.—Harper's Bazar.

Rich from an Accident.

A remarkable instance of the fickleness of fortune which occurred in Butte, Mont., several weeks ago, has just come to light. Dave Evans, a young miner, had been to see his best girl Sunday night. Returning home late he fell into an abandoned prospect hole, and was compelled to remain until the following morning, when, in ascending by means of a rope, he scaled off a portion of the wall and discovered a rich lead of silver. He leased the mine, and is now taking out ore that yields $300 a ton in silver and a considerable quantity of copper. He has been offered $50,000 to cancel his lease, but refuses to sell. He will become a millionaire, while the fellows who leased to him have already become hopeless inmates.—Cor. Chicago Times.

A Sugar Candy Jubilee.

Gondal is a Lilliputian Hindoo state, in the Bombay presidency. Its area is about eight times that of London; it has 140,000 inhabitants, and rejoices in an army of 600 sepoys, with sixteen cannon and a squad or two of cavalry. The ranee, or queen, of this state may, possibly enough, have asked whether the maharanee, or great queen, of England distributed sugar candy among the population of the British Isles on the occasion of her jubilee. It is what the Hindoo queen would have done. She dispensed sugar candy among her subjects of Gondal the other day in gratitude for her recovery from sickness.—London Standard.

Poor Charmed by a Snake.

A monster rattlesnake was killed Monday at Wampum's plantation, nine miles from Chester. It was discovered near the house of a colored woman named Lizzie Jones, and it had her house completely "charmed" so that she seemed to be unable to move and the snake was just about to strike when Lizzie threw a billet of wood, which caused the cat to spring into the air as though it was released from an enchantment. The snake was shot by one of the neighbors. It measured seven feet, and had twenty-two rattles and a button.—Savannah News.

The Fulminate Cap.

A railroad laborer named Johnson at McLean & Jones' camp, about three miles east of Malian, Idaho, attempted to commit suicide by means of a cap used in setting off giant powder and exploding it. He placed the cap between his teeth and struck it with a small hammer. The attempt was not an entire success. It had the effect, however, of completely shattering the inside of the man's mouth.—Rocky Mountain News.

The Secret of Success.

Denison & Co. and Hoberman & Co., druggists believe that the secret of success is perseverance. Therefore they persist in keeping the finest line of perfumeries, toilet articles, cosmetics, drugs and chemicals on the market. They especially invite all persons who have palpitation, short breath, weak or hungry spells, pain in side or shoulder, oppression, night mare, dry cough, smothering, dropsy or heart disease to try Dr. Miles' unequaled New Heart Cure, before it is too late. It has the largest sale of any similar remedy. Free book of testimonials free. Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine is unsurpassed for sleeplessness, headache, fits, etc., and it contains no opiates.

The Transcript says to make a spectacle of yourself if you desire that people should see through you.

A Wonder Worker.

Mr. Frank Hoffman, a young man of Burlington, Ohio, states that he had been under the care of two prominent physicians, and used their treatment until he was not able to get around. They pronounced his case to be Consumption and incurable. He was persuaded to try Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds and at that time was not able to walk across the street without resting. He found, before he had used half of a dollar bottle, that he was much better; he continued to use it and is today enjoying good health. If you have any Throat, Lung or Chest trouble try it. We guarantee satisfaction. Trial bottle free, at Flocken's drug store.

A thief's "swag" is a good deal like a coal of fire, says the Dispatch. It burns every hand that touches it.

If the food is not properly digested it becomes corrupt, and poisons the system it is intended to nourish. This is indigestion. "My wife has suffered for many years with indigestion. After trying everything else recommended, she tried Simmons Liver Regulator. In three days after taking it according to directions she was in perfect health; she does not suffer at all and can eat anything she wants without any of her previous symptoms."
W. C. SUBERS, Bainbridge, Ga.

It is well argued that with most men life is made up of going in debt and then struggling to get out.

A Husband's Mistake.

Husbands too often permit their wives, and parents their children, to suffer from headache, dizziness, neuralgia, sleeplessness, fits, nervousness, when by the use of Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine such serious results could easily be prevented. Druggists everywhere say it gives universal satisfaction, and has an immense sale. Woodworth & Co., of Fort Wayne, Ind.; Snow & Co., of Syracuse, N. Y.; J. C. Wolf, Hillsdale, Mich.; and hundreds of others say "it is the greatest seller they ever knew." It contains no opiates. Trial bottle and fine book on Nervous Diseases, free at Denison & Co. and Hoberman & Co.

A neighbor suggests that a self-made man and a self-made woman are two kinds of creatures.

NOW IS THE TIME

When the Crack Shot Takes His Gun and His Dog and Miss Himself Afield.

[Delaware Press.]

Now is the season when the valiant hunter cleans up his shot-gun, hunts up his shot-pouch and powder flask, calls up his dog, which responds with a knowing wag of the tail, and putting a flask of good old four-year-old in his inside coat pocket, repairs to some wood-surrounded pond, suburban thickets and stubble fields, from which the grain has been gleaned, and indulges in the rare sport of fall shooting.

This year the game is unusually plentiful. In Northwestern Ohio, where years ago the country was filled with every variety of game—deer, foxes, coons, rabbits, squirrels and all kinds of water fowl, the reports say that there has not in the past ten years been such a crop of squirrels. Pheasants abound in Northern Ohio, and the unsettled parts of Kentucky and Virginia, rabbits are abundant everywhere and Wick the well known sporting writer wagers that rabbits will be selling six for a quarter before Thanksgiving day. Quail are plentiful in Indiana, Illinois and Ohio.

A good day's shooting is from twelve to fifteen quail, five or six rabbits, and as many squirrels. The city possesses many gentlemen who each year resort to some favorite hunting grounds where the game is especially plentiful and spend from two to six weeks in hunting and then claim that there is nothing like it for their health.

The season in Kentucky and Indiana opens under the game laws on the 15th of October. In Tennessee on the 15th of September. In Ohio it opens on the 10th of November. There are upwards of one hundred and fifty local hunters who are now making their preparations for their annual fall shooting. The favorable weather and the reports from all the hunting grounds are such that all are eager and hopeful. Predictions are rife that the crop of hunting yarns will be larger than ever before.

Death of James Fribley.

Rev. James Fribley, the veteran minister, passed from life to his eternal reward on Sunday morning at 6:30 o'clock, dying at the home of Mr. Tadlock, on Garden street. Deceased was about 75 years of age and died of paralysis. He had been in feeble health for more than five years, but recently his condition become very dangerous and his own quarters were left to go to the home of Mr. Tadlock, where he could be nursed with the best of care.

Rev. Fribley was a veteran in Christian labors and was a man of whom only good can be said. He was conscientious and zealous in his labors and accomplished much good. For more than forty years he was a member of the Pittsburg Conference of the M. E. church, and a good part of that time was spent in the work of the ministry, in which calling he was both able and successful. During the war he was in the Christian Commission, the noble work of sending comforts and needful things to the country's defenders, and after that resumed the preaching of the gospel. When age and failing health made it impossible for him to continue preaching, he entered into the bible work, and was thus engaged when his sickness made him helpless in this city.

Deceased patiently suffered through his long affliction confident of his reward to come, and his example was one worthy of imitation. He was a brother to Jacob Fribley and Mrs. T. J. Magruder. His remains were removed to the home of the former, from which place the funeral will be conducted Tuesday at 10:30 a. m., Rev. Wallace officiating.

Marion Relief Association.

The ladies of the Relief Association will have oysters and coffee and lunch at their rooms, Masonic Block, Tuesday evening, from 5 to 8 o'clock. Tickets 25 cents. Everybody is cordially invited to be present and help the worthy poor. Remember the date, Tuesday, Nov. 4, and the place, Masonic Block. Supper will be served from 5 to 8 o'clock. Tickets 25 cents.

Improvements the Baptists Are Making.

You can see in the southwest corner of the old brick, on East street, cut into the corner stone, 1843, in plain figures. The foundation and the walls are in good condition.

The changes are radical. The entrance is now at the south end. The windows are handsome and modern in style. A pleasant colored paint covers the outer walls. Within, the old gallery, high pulpit, and dressing room have all been removed. Now the room is tastefully papered, all of the woodwork painted and the floor covered with a good carpet. The work goes forward only as money is obtained. Their decision is, no debt shall rest on the Lord's house. There is lacking yet about $100, for which there is no provision, in order to repair and put in new heaters. The question now is, who will furnish this sum so as to finish the repairs and give to the Lord a beautiful little house without one dollar of indebtedness? Think favorably of the situation. Mr. Harry True, when he saw what was being done, voluntarily gave a lot to help the work forward. That was indeed a good send. Whoever is drawn to make a free-will offering, let him cheerfully do so.

Pastor J. R. Bowser preached a sermon appropriate to the occasion, Nov. 2, and the former pastor, Rev. A. J. Wiant, preached at night.

It is proposed to occupy the house regularly on the 1st, 3d, and when the repairs are all completed a more formal re-opening will be observed. Come and see how nice it looks this year, after it has been [illegible]

A Successful Engagement.

[Detroit Free Press.]

On Saturday night the Opera House was crowded from pit to dome, standing room being sold at the ticket office long before the curtain arose. The attraction was the Rinehart Sisters. Misses Leo, Minnie and Stella Rinehart, in their songs and dances were highly appreciated and vigorously applauded, Miss Leo being a marvel of the stage. The comedians were particularly good, their jokes and singing containing a spice of originality that was very pleasing. Miss Bertie Rinehart has a very pretty and sweet face and her acting brought fourth many words of praise. In response to a special request she sang "Across the Bridge at Night" and in the rendition of this beautiful song her versatility was wonderful well illustrated. Miss Goldie Rinehart, a prepossessing blonde, was a great favorite during the stay of the company in this city. Nature has been generous to her, dowering her with rich personal charms that accord well with the musical tones of a wonderful voice that lent itself with charming and tender grace and power to the sentiments of her voice, which went straight to the hearts of the auditors, who manifested their delight in enthusiastic applause to each one of her songs. The company throughout gave universal satisfaction and they closed a successful week's business on Saturday night.
